The following statements outline the privacy policy of Pblishing.com. The main aim of such privacy policy is to collect, store and share users' personal information to ensure better services. By using the services of Pblishing.com, each user gives consent to the collection, use or disclosure of their personal information in accordance with this privacy policy. Pblishing.com reserves the right to update its privacy policy. So, we request you to regularly review the page.

In case of any queries, users are requested to contact: report@Pblishing.com.

1. Pblishing.com stores and uses the personal information of users solely for providing our services to users. The Personal information collected or used will be in the form of: name, email address, mailing address. Telephone numbers, payment and usage records will only be stored for official purpose and will not be disclosed.
2. Updates and Notifications: As part of our services, Pblishing.com will regularly send users updates and other information related to new application launches, promotions, contests and such. However, at any time, the user may choose to opt out from receiving such updates and notifications.
3. Service Announcements: In case of any maintenance service of our website for which the website may temporarily remain suspended, Pblishing.com will send out such information via email or SMS message. Such messages are not promotional in nature and users cannot opt out from such services. They however, can deactivate their account.
4. Customer Service: In order to facilitate and provide good services to our users, Pblishing.com will communicate with users via email or phone. In case of any account related issues, Pblishing.com will reply via email or phone.
5. Surveys: Pblishing.com will conduct surveys to receive feedback from users. Participation in such surveys is completely voluntary. However, anonymous service information will be used. Users' personal information will not be shared with third parties unless prior notice and choice is given to users.
6. Eligibility: Children under the age of thirteen are strictly prohibited from using the services of Pblishing.com. In case of any violation, Pblishing.com reserves the right to delete such user accounts.
7. Cookies: Pblishing.com uses session ID cookies. If a user wants that their login credentials to be remembered, then they must opt in to the usage of cookies.
8. Pblishing.com will use personal information of its users to generate aggregate information. Such information will show user activity instead of showing it on an individual basis.
9. Pblishing.com will store and use the web server log files of its users. This is done to keep a check on the web browsers such as internet protocol addresses, browser type, internet service provider, track user's movement and such.
10. Pblishing.com will not share any information of users except for the following:
    a. The aggregate information collected by Pblishing.com will not be used for personal identification, but will only be shared with our other customers and partners.
    b. Pblishing.com will only share personal information of users if:
    (i) a law, warrant or court order requires Pblishing.com to do so.
    (ii) the personal rights or property of Pblishing.com or of its subsidiaries is in jeopardy.
    (iii) the personal safety of users of Pblishing.com is in jeopardy.
    c. In the event of any business transactions such as merger or change of ownership, Pblishing.com will share the personal information of its users. Users will be notified via email in case of such changes.
11. Pblishing.com website contains links to other websites too. As such, users are requested to be careful while using other such websites.
12. Pblishing.com maintains full security measures in order to prevent any loss or misuse of personal information. However, at times transmission of such information over internet is not completely secure. In case of such events, Pblishing.com will not be responsible.

13. If a user wants then he/she can change or update his/her personal information by going to the main website or on their cellular phone. If a user wishes to delete/deactivate their account, then he can do so by going to the main website.
14. Pblishing.com collects, stores and use information gained from third parties. Such third parties include Facebook, Twitter and such through which you may sign in to Pblishing.com. We will use the information to personalize our services and give you a better experience. However, we do not collect or store your password from third parties.

In case of any queries or suggestions regarding our Privacy Policy then kindly write to us at report@Pblishing.com.